Dear Colleague,

Greetings from Kochi...!

We are extremely happy to invite you all to the beautiful city of Kochi for your esteemed participation in "ONCOLOGY 2026" the international conference on multidisciplinary management of common cancers which is going to be held at the fabulous convention centre of IMA House, Kochi on 13th, 14th & 15th of March 2026. There will be a pre- conference scientific programme on Genomics in Oncology and Radiology for Oncologists (Parallel sessions) on 12th March 2026. All of us should make use of this opportunity to update our knowledge in "PRECISION ONCOLOGY". The conference will highlight clinical problems in daily practice of oncology through case-based panel discussions, lectures etc. There will be parallel sessions on Radiology for Oncologists, Target Volume Delineation in Oncology, how to be successful in abroad and opportunities abroad, E-contouring and applications of high-tech Radiation Oncology applied to SBRT in the management of metastatic disease, lung cancer etc. Practical tips for FRCR aspirants will be organised by faculty from UK and India oncology residents may make use of "MEET THE PROFESSOR" sessions.

Apart from distinguished faculty from abroad such as Prof. Suresh Senan (Amsterdam), Prof. M V Pillai (USA), Dr. Najeeb Mohideen (USA), Prof. Kurian Joseph (Canada), Prof. Ben George (USA), Prof. Saby George (USA) distinguished faculty from India such as Prof. Kumar Prabhash, Dr. Ullas Batra, Dr. Senthil Rajappa, Dr. Vijayanand Reddy, Prof. Vedang Murthy, Prof. Sidharth Laskar, Prof. Sarbani Ghosh Laskar, Prof. Manoj Gupta and many others also consented to participate.

There will be opportunities for paper presentation, poster presentation and also quiz programme, all meant for different specialities of oncology. As in the previous years, the winners will be awarded gold, silver and bronze medals and two post graduate students will be awarded funding for further training in oncology.

Radiation Oncology : Clinical Reasoning in Oncology

This will be a structured, case-based academic session designed primarily for postgraduate trainees and early career oncologists. A resident will present a real-world oncology case in an exam-oriented format. The discussion will be led by Professor and Assistant Professors with years of oncology experience & international fellowship.

The session will focus on clinical reasoning, evidence-based decision-making, common exam pitfalls, and how case discussions translate into long-term clinical practice and career development. Emphasis will be placed on how exam answers evolve into consultant-level thinking, making this session valuable for both examination preparation and future oncology practice.
